

Science Fiction

Definition - Science fiction is a type of fiction where the stories revolve around science and technology of the future.

1. Setting - Science-fiction settings tend to include space travel, new galaxies or futuristic times.
2. Character - Characters in these stories often include aliens, time travelers and heroic adventurers.
3. Plot - The plot of science fiction usually centers around technological discoveries, time travel and alien invasions.
4. Themes - Many of science fiction's most common themes include space travel, time travel, encounters with alien life forms.
5. Structure - Science-fiction stories are usually full of action, adventure and plot twists that make up the structure.